

Conrad Szymczak

Conrad's broad international management, engineering and business experience spans 40 plus years. Over his career, he's worked on government, military, and private-sector projects in facility construction, maintenance and planning; enterprise management systems; defense products; and commercial aircraft design, fabrication, retrofit, and research and development. His skill at building effective working relationships with customers and staff at all levels and recognizing the larger enterprise needs by effectively leading efforts to optimize scope, cost, and quality of projects.

Erudition includes a B.S. in structural engineering and materials engineering from the University of Illinois, and an M.S. in project management from City U Seattle, with Ph.D. work in project management at Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology.

Post career retiree (bucket list) includes: Adjunct Professor at University of Washington, Seattle; Docent at Ft. Lewis Military Museum, Member of Patient-Family Advisory Committee for CHI Franciscan; Community Representative of Pierce County Force Investigation Team; NRA Firearm Safety Instructor; Washington State Hunter Education Instructor; and Staff Writer for the Gazette Magazine.