Ravel & Shostakovich
SYMPHONIC SERIES

Our Symphonic Series opens with music born from great conflicts of the 20th Century. Shostakovich's Eighth Symphony dates from the darkest days of World War II, when making music scarcely seemed possible.

Mozart Jupiter Symphony
SYMPHONIC SERIES

Legend has it that as a child, Mozart was terrified by the sheer volume and force of the trumpet's sound. At the apex of his genius, however, he included a pair of them in his final, immortal "Jupiter" Symphony, where they are used to thrilling effect. This program joins that work with his 40th Symphony — darker and more poignant in mood. Star trumpeter Tine Thing Helseth brings the soul of the trumpet — brilliant and delicately burnished — to our stage in two luminous showpieces. Helseth captures Haydn's delightful good humor and Bent Sørensen's playful music in a concerto that was composed especially for her.

Penguins of Antarctica
National Geographic Live

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC EVENTS

Antarctic's name alone conjures imagery of the harshest environment on Earth, but it is more than its monochromatic color scheme of snow and ice. Meet the many species of penguins that waddle and swim through the freezing water, along with an abundance of other life, on a journey south with quantitative ecologist Dr. Heather Lynch.

Double Feature:
Bride of Frankenstein &
Young Frankenstein
EXCLUSIVES

“She’s alive! She’s Alive!” Come to Benaroya Hall for a good ol’ fashioned double feature. First revel in the spooky 1935 classic Bride of Frankenstein starring Boris Karloff and Elsa Lanchester, projected in all its glory onto the big screen as the Seattle Symphony performs the genius original score by Franz Waxman. For our second feature, the orchestra takes a break as we screen Mel Brooks’ 1974 comedy classic, Young Frankenstein, with an all-star cast including Gene Wilder and Teri Garr.
