Beethoven Emperor Concerto MASTERWORKS SERIES

Kevin John Edusei conductor
Steven Osborne piano
Seattle Symphony

The emperor and Hero come together for a program of orchestral brilliance. Scottish pianist Steven Osborne returns to Seattle after his triumphant performances last year to take on Beethoven's fifth and final piano concerto, the life-affirming "Emperor." In Ein Heldenleben (A Hero's Life), Strauss creates a musical self-portrait with appearances by his wife, friends and even his dreaded music critics. The commanding and elegant Kevin John Edusei makes his Seattle Symphony conducting debut with these epic thrilling works.

Randall Goosby Plays Mozart

MASTERWORKS SERIES

Christian Reif conductor

Randall Goosby violin

Seattle Symphony

Mozart is so closely linked to his mastery of the piano that his first instrument is sometimes forgotten — the violin. His third Violin Concerto is a work from his youth. It sparkles with sophisticated humor and emotional complexity — a delightful testament to the human spirit in the Age of Reason.
