

Hi, I'm Vicky White and in my next life I'd like to be a cultural anthropologist due to my love of travel. It allows me to meet and learn about people from other cultures from places outside the US. Before I retired from Boeing in 2012, I became a travel agent, traveling to the Caribbean during the winter months and Europe and Asia late spring and into the early fall, and doing my best to stay local during the summer months.

I'm a native Washingtonian, born in Tacoma and moved to King county when I became employed at Boeing. My favorite pastime is travel!
